Sunday Special Edition

Should Christians Observe the Sabbath Today?

This question is often asked concerning the Sabbath in the present day. The excerpt below is from an article by the late Wayne Jackson. The full article is found at: <https://www.christiancourier.com/articles/314-should-christians-keep-the-sabbath>

First Century Christian Practice

Try as one might, he will search in vain for New Testament evidence that the primitive church observed the Sabbath with apostolic approval. Yes, it certainly was the case that the apostles frequented the synagogues on the Sabbath for the purpose of proclaiming the gospel. That is where the greatest concentration of Jews would have been (cf. Acts 13:14; 17:1-2, etc.), and the message regarding Jesus was to be spoken first to them (Rom. 1:16).

But where is the evidence that the early church, under divine guidance, came together to worship God on the Sabbath day? The kingdom of Christ was established on the day of Pentecost (Acts 2:1), which always fell on “the morrow after the Sabbath” (Lev. 23:15-16), hence, on Sunday. So the church started out meeting for worship on the first day of the week (cf. Acts 2:42).

The disciples at Troas “were gathered together” [passive voice] upon “the first day of the week” to break bread, i.e., to worship, (Acts 20:7). The specific day of meeting was no accident. Though Paul was anxious to get to Jerusalem (20:16), he waited seven days for the opportunity to assemble with the church.

Moreover, the passive voice (see above) indicates that the assemblage was orchestrated by someone other than the disciples. It was of divine initiative. The saints in Corinth were assembling, and contributing into the church treasury, “every first day of the week” (1 Cor. 16:2 — Greek text; cf. NASB).

On the isle of Patmos, John was “in the spirit” on “the Lord’s day” (Rev. 1:10). The term for “Lord’s” is kupaikos, which is defined here as “relating to the Lord.” Thayer comments: “the day devoted to the Lord, sacred to the memory of Christ’s resurrection” (365).

The Gospel narratives, of course, make it clear that the resurrection occurred on Sunday. While Revelation 1:10 would not be conclusive by itself, the very fact that the day is specifically mentioned is significant. We must also add this note. While it was true that some weak or uninformed Christians had a problem making a clean break with the Mosaic economy (Rom. 14:1ff; Gal. 4:10-11), it is important to recognize that inspired apostolic teaching sought to correct this error.

YOUTH GROUP EVENTS [6th-12th grades]

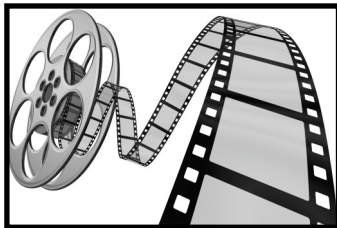

CYC WATCH PARTY- February 26-28

We will be watching the CYC Tennessee session live at Weber Road. Meals will be provided. There is a sign up sheet and schedule in the foyer. We are going to be very flexible with the schedule because of the logistics of everything and the unknowns. We will need help with chaperoning and serving meals, if you wish to help please see Kenneth. The lessons this year are "In Need of Love", "In Need of Christ", "In Need of Someone to Listen", and "In Need of Grace and Mercy." The Speakers are Kyle Butt, Chris Miller, Reed Swindle, and Lonnie Jones.

YOUTH DEVOTIONAL HOSTS

Over the course of the last few months, the teens have been having a monthly devotional at the Church building. As we continue down this road to normalcy, I want to encourage our Families to get involved in these devotionals. We have devotional groups that host one devotional twice a year. If you would like to be involved in these devo groups please contact Kenneth. We will have a parent meeting February 21 right after morning service to discuss these opportunities.
